Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Scottish Medical Surgical Journal, Vol. 6: January to June Diseased processes may strike at the whole or at any part of this neuron, and may be of very varying character. Any lesion involving the anterior horns of the cord (or the corresponding motor cerebral nuclei) which destroys the cell, destroys at the same time the whole neuron, because the cell is its trophic centre, and produces for a like reason rapid atrophy in the muscle. Or it may be that the axon running in the peripheral nerve may alone be affected, the result usually of pressure, wounding, or other local cause. Or, finally, the neuron may be attacked as a whole, by the toxins of disease, by the products of faulty metabolism, or by some metallic, alcoholic, or other extraneous poison. But whether it be the neuron as a whole which is attacked, or the cell in the cord, or only the motor nerve in its course, the result as to motor symptoms is very similar. And these motor phenomena, familiar to you from...
